best cornet and martial bands; A local choir second to none in the county. Plenty of shade, water, refreshments and amusements. The best speakers from both sides will address the people each day, morning, afternoon and eyening. The great stereopticon war enes will be exhibited every evening by Capt. Gus. Saltzman. A grand display of fireworks will also be made every evening. It promises to be one of the biggest affairs eyer held in Craig, and we do hope as many of our readers, as ments to go early and stay late.

The state has distributed the school moneys to the counties, and the appormade by County Clerk Curtic appears elsewhere in this issue. Holt county receives $5,206.03, a fraction less than a dollar for each person of school age, 6 to 20, as the enumeration this spring Andrew, although larger in population, has 5,334 children and receives $4,805.13 from the state-less than Holt county. Atchison is also larger in population but has less school children.

To this state money is added the county and township funds, which in the cases of the larger special districts makes about as much more as that received from the state, as follows:

This is on the assessed value of property, which amounts in this school district to $702,022, and as the assessment trict to $702,022, and as the assessment any in the state, and we assure those is not over one half the real value, it parents who place their children in the appears that in the Oregon school dis-trict there are about 1½ million dollars' worth of property.

The rate of taxes varies in the county according to the needs of the various school, or schools, in its district will cost, and the levy is made accordingly.

The state school money comes mainly from one-third of the state taxes for state revenue. The state levies 15 cents state revenue. The state levies 15 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation to run the state government and one-third of this goes to the common schools. Then there are state school moneys that are bearing interest, and this interest is divided among the counties, in propor-tion to the children of school sge.
